Games Next Saturday.

2:30—Barton Heights vs. Brownies.

4:20—Richmond vs. Brownies.

The Brownies lost the game because the Imperials played better ball; over 1,000 people saw the contest; the "Wail" parade band played during the game; McLeavy lost his head and went into the grandstand after a rooter who had gazed him; the Brownies couldn't hit; the team was a pitched-up affair, with John McLeavy as a deserter, Anthony crippled, Hulcher weak, Knowles and Sharp in the field and Hicks at first; with this mix-up, the Brownies should have been defeated worse; Barton Heights, however, lengthened; they had in the game with confidence, and with their last weak spot strengthened, with one of the Brownies own men.

A glance over the score shows that the first two runs were made on errors by Jim McLeavy, while the rest were made on hits. The error column tells an awful tale, and Hulcher was in a deplorable condition, which proves that a pitcher must work to be in condition; take Fitz, for instance, he pitches all the games for Barton Heights, and to-day the most effective twirler in the league, because he works hard.

As the teams were made up yesterday the Imperials presented the strongest front, both at the bat and in the field. McLeavy added nothing to the individual strength of the team, and he should have very little to say about his part in the victory, considering his action in jumping the Brownies at the critical point in the championship season.

McLeavy was censured as he should have been, for his action in rushing into the grandstand, when some guy rooster shouted at him. Such things will not tend to strengthen interest in ball. Richmond is now ready for base-ball, was evidenced by the presence of such a large crowd at the ball park yesterday.

And now for the game.

Game in Detail.

For three innings the game was as fast as a foot race. The Brownies were in the highest pitch, the rival rooters roared good and hard, and the players put up a fine exhibition.

Rose was the first up. He went out on a fly to Knowles, and Hogan sailed on a bad throw to first by McLeavy. Anthony recovered the ball, put it to Hicks, and the latter threw the runner out at third base. John McLeavy was killed at first. Sharp struck out for the second time. The error column tells an awful tale, and Hulcher was in a deplorable condition, which proves that a pitcher must work to be in condition; take Fitz, for instance, he pitches all the games for Barton Heights, and to-day the most effective twirler in the league, because he works hard.

In the third, Sheldon couldn't connect; Fitz walked, but was caught between bases and landed by Hicks, assisted by Anthony. Each one of these errors was a bad throw to first by McLeavy. In the Brownies' half Jim McLeavy went out to Rose; McLeavy was caught at first, and Hulcher sailed on John McLeavy's error; Sharp struck out, and nothing was done.

Up to this point it looked like a game by might.

But Jim McLeavy started things in the fourth. Hogan and John McLeavy got to first on Jim's errors. Albert Anthony hurt his finger, and withdrew from the game; Cheatham went to right field. Knowles to first, and after that the game went on to the Brownies' advantage, reminiscent of the following re-creating game.

In the fourth, fifth and sixth innings

O.H.BERRY & CO. MEN & BOYS OUTFITTERS

several runs were made by the Imperials on four hits, five errors and a base on balls. The Brownies were up in the air.

The crowd shouted, and the band marched into the grounds, with the compliments

of Manager Henry Pierson and Howard

Hall.

It's a shame to go into further details,

but it might be well to say that for every inning but the eighth, it was a case of one, two, three for the Brownies.

In that inning Cheatham made the only hit of the game, a nice one to right field;

he stole second, and reached third on

Knowles' out, but there he was against the Browns and ran up against something of a Waterloo, and here is the detailed score:
